

Candidate for Calpaca BOD 2004/6

Bio: Hello. I'm Kay Rodriguez owner of the Lazy K Ranch in Reno, Nevada. My husband and I started raising alpacas in 1999 while still living in Southern California. We bought our land in Reno that year and moved to the ranch in August of 2000. We currently have a herd of 38 alpacas, 7 suris and the rest huacayas along with 5 llamas and 4 horses. I work the ranch full time with a part time helper. I love these animals and believe that the future in raising alpacas will be a bright one. These wonderful animals have become my life and my passion.

I currently sit on two boards, IAO and AWE. I have been the chair for the International Alpaca Odyssey for the past two years and have helped organize the show for 2004 and working on the 2005 show. We do show extensively and really enjoy this part of the business. It is a wonderful way to meet new people and promote these remarkable animals.

I believe in the future of the alpaca industry and will work hard for you as a board member.
